

Cancun's Theme Parks

DOES CANCUN HAVE THEME PARKS?

DOES CANCUN HAVE THEME PARKS?

Yes, Cancun does have theme parks — but they are notably different from their American counterparts. Located just outside Cancun proper in the Riviera Maya, Xcaret is a collection of eco-archeological and adventure theme parks that has few comparable counterparts in the world. Rather than roller coasters being the main event, these parks emphasize the thrill of the locale. Here are a few notable highlights at Xcaret.

Xcaret brings a whole new meaning to the term "lazy river."

XCARET

Xcaret is the marquee park, the absolute can't-miss of the offerings. Over 50 natural and cultural attractions are located here, all of which are included with your admission ticket. A day spent here will likely see you:

- Embarking on a tour through one of the three underground rivers
- Strolling the Tropical Jungle Trail
- Paying a visit to the Butterfly Pavilion, Coral Reef Aquarium and the Aviary
- Observing jaguars, manatees, sea turtles and tapirs in habitat-like exhibits
- Exploring the Mayan Village and the Mexican Cemetery
- Splashing into a good time with your little ones at Children's World
- Reveling in the Mexico Espectacular show, as it showcases the history of Mexico
- Enjoying a proper beach day at beach

A few recommendations for visiting Xcaret: You'll want to wear a swimsuit and bring a towel and a change of comfortable clothing, plus cash or a credit card for any food or souvenirs that catch your eye. Also, make sure you only pack sunscreen containing titanium oxide and zinc oxide — no other kinds are allowed in the park.

Xplor answers the age-old question: How awesome are underground rivers? Very.

XPLOR

Xplor is your ticket to experiencing the jungle as it was meant to be experienced: wildly. Explore the ground floor with an amphibious vehicle, as the rubber meets the mud. Or raft and swim through underground rivers, as you delve into the secrets buried beneath the earth. But the main attraction is undoubtedly the zip lines: With two circuits comprising seven zip lines each, the chance to soar through the jungle canopy is a downright high point of your trip — literally. Xplor is home to the tallest zip line in all of Cancun and the Riviera Maya, promising quite the view.

Between the waterslides and the lagoons, it can be tough to pick your favorite part of Xel-Há.

XEL-HÁ

Xel-Há is what every waterpark wishes they were: waterslides galore, situated on a serene stretch of Caribbean coastline. When you get tired of the slides, you can enjoy unlimited snorkeling in the inlet, jump from the Stone of Courage, cannonball into a natural cenote or soak in the view of the surrounding landscape from the top of the scenic lighthouse. If you need a breather from all the excitement, any of the many lounge chairs and hammocks make for a serene siesta spot.

Xcaret succeeds in transforming the already stunning locale into something more: A one-of-a-kind theme park.
